Scouts in work uniforms take a break in front of a row of armored cars, starting with an Sd.Kfz. 222, then an Sd.Kfz. 231 (8 Rad), and then three Sd.Kfz. 232 (Fu) (8 Rad). Since the scouts all wear black overseas cap, the photograph was taken some time after the campaign in France in 1940. JIM HALEY

Scouts take a moment to strike a martial pose in their Sd.Kfz. 222, probably intended for home-front consumption. Note the fascines mounted along the front, as well as the pre-positioned tow cable, which allowed a quick recovery—an especially valuable timesaving measure under combat conditions. JIM HALEY

Right: Rail-loaded Sd.Kfz. 222's from the same unit roll down the tracks with air guards posted.
